47. Defendants, including Martinez, Ting and Rodriguez, falsely arrested Mr. Delgado. They were fully aware that no burglar's tools or forged instrument was in Mr. Delgado's possession, but knowingly and intentionally chose to state burglar's tools and forged instrument were in his possession to justify and excuse an otherwise invalid arrest.

48. Defendant Martinez fabricated false evidence against plaintiff, namely that he recovered a bent MetroCard that could purportedly be used to gain free entrance to the subway platform.

49. Defendant Ting fabricated false evidence against plaintiff, namely his purported observations of plaintiff received money from several individuals and then proceeded to open the emergency gate to allow them to enter the subway platform, which he then forwarded to prosecutors.

50. Defendant Rodriguez was the supervising sergeant, who approved of plaintiff's arrest, despite his full knowledge that plaintiff never committed any arrestable offenses.

52. Mr. Delgado was never in actual, constructive or statutory possession of any burglar's tools or forged instrument.

53. Mr. Delgado had multiple assaults and batteries committed to his person, including but not limited to, being placed in handcuffs too tightly by defendant, including Martinez, Ting and Rodriguez.

September 22, 2018 Incident

61. On September 22, 2018, at approximately 6:15 p.m., Mr. Delgado was in the process of giving others directions in front of a map in the vicinity of the inside of the subway station at 7th Avenue and West 49th Street, County of New York, State of New York.

62. On said date, time and location, Defendants, including Martinez, Ting and Rodriguez, approached Mr. Delgado without a lawful reason to do so, as he was committing no crime or violation of the law.

63. Defendants, including Martinez, Ting and Rodriguez, each proceeded to push Mr. Delgado against a nearby wall, violently demanding that Mr. Delgado put his hands behind his back, so that defendants could handcuff him.

64. Defendants, including Martinez, Ting and Rodriguez, then illegally searched Mr. Delgado, with said search yielding nothing of probative value.

65. Mr. Delgado asked Defendants, including Samsuddin, Martinez, Ting and Rodriguez, why he was being placed under arrest several times, all of which were ignored.

68. Defendants, including Martinez, Ting and Rodriguez, were fully aware that Mr. Delgado did not commit the abovementioned crimes, but knowingly and intentionally chose to state otherwise to justify and excuse an otherwise invalid arrest.

69. Defendant Ting fabricated false evidence to be used against Mr. Delgado, namely that Mr. Delgado placed a piece of tape along the magnetic strip of the emergency gate to the subway platform, so that the gate would be prevented from fully closing, that defendant Ting observed plaintiff approached various individuals, stating to each, in sum and substance, that plaintiff would said individuals through the gate in consideration for compensation in the amount of Five USD ($5.00) and that defendant Ting observed further observed plaintiff accept Five USD ($5.00) from five (5) individuals, before plaintiff proceeded to open the aforementioned gate, permitting said five (5) individuals pass through without permission and authority or paying the fare lawfully owed to the New York City Transit Authority.

70. Defendant Martinez was fully aware that defendant Ting's purported observations, regarding Mr. Delgado's alleged unlawful activity, were complete fabrications, yet defendant Martinez proceeded to forward said false information to prosecutors.

71. Defendant Rodriguez was the supervising sergeant, who approved and authorized Mr. Delgado's arrest, despite his full knowledge that plaintiff had committed no crime or violation of the law and did not attempt to commit any crime or violation of the law, including those referenced above.

72. Mr. Delgado had multiple assaults and batteries committed to his person, including but not limited to, being placed in handcuffs too tightly by defendants, including Martinez, Ting and Rodriguez.

73. Mr. Delgado was then transported to a local precinct by defendants, including Martinez, Ting and Rodriguez.

74. Upon arrival at the precinct, Mr. Delgado was illegally fingerprinted and photographed by defendants, including Martinez, Ting and Rodriguez.

75. Mr. Delgado was then confined to a jail cell by defendants, including Martinez, Ting and Rodriguez.

76. Mr. Delgado was eventually taken to Central Booking, where he remained in a cell until his criminal court arraignment.

77. Plaintiff was wrongfully incarcerated over the course of two (2) days or approximately nineteen (19) hours, until he was released on, or about, September 23, 2018.

78. Mr. Delgado was compelled to return to court numerous times to contest the false charges levied against him, until all criminal charges re to all three (3) arrests were dismissed on August 27, 2019.

79. Mr. Delgado never committed any crimes or violations of the law.

80. At no point did Defendants, including Martinez, Ting and Rodriguez, ever observe Mr. Delgado commit any crime or offense.

81. At no point were the defendants, including Martinez, Ting and Rodriguez, ever told by any witnesses that Mr. Delgado committed any crime or violation of the law.

82. In each of three incidents referenced, supra, Defendants, including Samsuddin, Martinez, Ting and Rodriguez, each lacked the requisite probable cause or reasonable suspicion to stop, question, search, arrest, and subsequently cause criminal prosecutions to be initiated against Mr. Delgado, respective to the events and occurrences set forth for each distinct date of incident.

83. In all of the three incidents, Defendants, including Samsuddin, Martinez, Ting and Rodriguez, each lacked probable or reasonable cause to believe the respective prosecutions would succeed against Plaintiff, or that Plaintiff was guilty of any crime or unlawful offense.

84. In each of three incidents, Defendants, including Samsuddin, Martinez, Ting and Rodriguez, acting with malice, conveyed the aforementioned false, fabricated, misleading or incomplete information to prosecutors, so that Plaintiff would be prosecuted for Criminal Possession of a Forged Instrument in the Third Degree and other related charges.

85. In each of the three incidents, Defendants were without a judicially authorized warrant for plaintiff's arrest.

86. Defendants, including Samsuddin, Martinez, Ting and Rodriguez, intentionally, knowingly and falsely made said allegations to conceal their otherwise illegal, tortious and sinister acts, namely stopping and searching an individual illegally without a search or arrest warrant, probable cause or reasonable suspicion, and then effectuating an arrest predicated on fabricated observations, therefore also without probable or reasonable cause.

87. In all three above referenced incidents, Defendants, including Samsuddin, Martinez, Ting and Rodriguez, suppressed evidence, namely the existence of video surveillance and civilian eye-witnesses that would have served to fully exculpate and exonerate plaintiff of all criminal charges for each incident.

88. Defendants have displayed a pattern and practice of fabricating false observations and falsely alleging contraband to be found to justify otherwise unwarranted arrests.

89. During all of the events described, the Defendants, including Samsuddin, Martinez, Ting and Rodriguez, acted maliciously and with intent to injure Plaintiff, as they possessed no valid reason or justification for stopping, searching and arresting plaintiff.

90. At all times relevant hereto, Defendants, including Samsuddin, Martinez, Ting and Rodriguez, were involved in the decision to arrest Plaintiff without probable cause or failed to intervene when they observed others arresting Plaintiff without probable cause.

91. At all times relevant hereto, Defendants, including Samsuddin, Martinez, Ting and Rodriguez, engaged in fraud, perjury, the suppression of evidence and other actions conducted in bad faith, or failed to intervene when defendants observed others doing so, all in furtherance of Plaintiff's criminal prosecutions.

92. Defendant City has engaged in a policy, custom, or pattern and practice of stopping, questioning, frisking, searching and arresting individuals without reasonable suspicion or probable cause.

93. Defendant City and its employee police officers have also engaged in a policy, custom, or pervasive pattern and practice of failing to draft the required documents after conducting stops and searches individuals, colloquially known as "stop and frisk" reports, despite being court ordered to do so.

94. Mr. Delgado asserts that the aforementioned unlawful acts committed by defendants are representative of a pervasive policy, custom or pattern and practice within the City of New York and the NYPD.

95. Mr. Delgado asserts that Defendants, including Samsuddin, Martinez, Ting and Rodriguez, illegally stopped him, searched his person, and then falsely arrested him, due solely to their racial, ethnic, gender, or socio-economic discriminatory prejudices, their desire to meet an arrest quota and to benefit from increased overtime compensation.

96. Mr. Delgado further asserts that Defendants, including Samsuddin, Martinez, Ting and Rodriguez, acted in such an unlawfully reprehensible manner, on each of the above referenced incident dates, due to their assumption that defendants' version of events would undoubtedly and unduly be credited over Mr. Delgado's, solely because Mr. Delgado is a Hispanic or African American male.

97. On each of the respective incident dates, Defendants, including Samsuddin, Martinez, Ting and Rodriguez, arrested and prosecuted Plaintiff, not because of any probable cause to belief that Plaintiff had committed any crimes or violations of the law, but because Plaintiff is a Hispanic or African American male.

98. Defendants, including Samsuddin, Martinez, Ting and Rodriguez, discriminated against Plaintiff by arresting, assaulting, battering, and prosecuting Plaintiff, solely due to defendants' perception or consideration of Plaintiff's race, ethnicity, national origin, immigration status, religion, gender, socio-economic status or age.

99. Defendants, including Samsuddin, Martinez, Ting and Rodriguez, perpetrated multiple overt acts in furtherance of their obviously discriminatory inclinations, namely the unlawful car stop, searches, assaults, batteries, seizure, arrest, and prosecution against plaintiff.

100. Defendants, including Samsuddin, Martinez, Ting and Rodriguez, possessed no valid reason to stop plaintiff, to search plaintiff, or to arrest plaintiff, on any of above referenced incident dates, which gives rise to the strong inference that the unlawful acts committed by Defendants, including Samsuddin, Martinez, Ting and Rodriguez, against Plaintiff were discriminatorily motivated and enacted upon.

101. Defendants, including Samsuddin, Martinez, Ting and Rodriguez, subjected plaintiff to disparate treatment compared to other individuals similarly situated, because defendants did not stop any white individuals, who were acting in the same manner, as plaintiff during each of the instances referenced herein, supra.

102. Plaintiff asserts that the defendants, including Samsuddin, Martinez, Ting, Rodriguez, and John or Jane Does 1-10, who violated plaintiff's civil rights, are part of a larger pattern and practice of similar misconduct, which is so widespread, pervasive and consistent throughout the NYPD and the City of New York that the commission such constitutionally violative behavior has become tantamount to an official policy or custom within the NYPD and City of New York or, at the very least, conclusive evidence that the City and the NYPD have either tacitly approved of such egregious wrongdoings or that they have become deliberately indifferent to the civil rights of those who may come into contact their police officers.

103. The individually named defendants herein, as well as other officers serving in the employ of the NYPD and City of New York, have blatantly, shamelessly, consistently and repeatedly engaged in conduct violative of the civil rights guaranteed and protected by Constitution of the United States, in addition to the laws and Constitution of the State of New York, all without incurring any ramifications for such misconduct and, ostensibly, with the full and complete blessing of the NYPD, the City of New York and their respective policymakers and supervisors.

104. The New York Times, as well as numerous other reputable journalistic enterprises, have reported on the widespread corruption within the NYPD and City of New York, particularly the incredibly disconcerting proclivity of many NYPD officers to lie about subject matters that are materially relevant to criminal prosecutions, including the complete fabrication of arrest evidence and witnesses. Attached hereto, as Exhibit A, and incorporated by reference herein, are various articles and reports detailing the magnitude and overwhelming prevalence of incidents, in which NYPD officers were caught lying, including instances that resulted in the arrest and imprisonment of innocent people. Also detailed, is the NYPD's obstinate refusal to effectuate corrective or preventive measures to combat the inevitable recurrence of such misdeeds, and perhaps most troubling, the NYPD's alarming tendency to, instead, reward and promote these officers, including those who were inculcated via some incontrovertible form of evidence.

105. On March 18, 2018, The New York Times published an explosive article, entitled "Promotions, Not Punishments for Officers Accused of Lying," written by Joseph Goldstein. Mr. Goldstein shines a light on the multitude of flaws within the CCRB and the NYPD, highlighting the fact that the substantiation of a claim against an officer will invariably rely on the presence of incontrovertible proof against the officer. Due to the rarity availability of this type of evidence, an alarmingly small percentage of officer misconduct claims are substantiated. The CCRB is further handicapped by a terribly designed system that requires evidence of a virtually indisputable nature to substantiate any claim against an officer. The article also details the NYPD's persistent reluctance to investigate or discipline officers who lie and even posits that this reluctance is a significant cause of the lying pandemic within the NYPD. The article references various officers and detectives who were the subject of credible accusations relating to the officers' intentionally false statements, with some allegations coming from federal and state judges.

106. On September 12, 2019, The New York Times published another article by Joseph Goldstein, entitled "Officers Said They Smelled Pot. The Judge Called Them Liars." Unsurprisingly, this article dealt with the unusually high frequency of officers using the odor of marijuana to excuse a search that conspicuously does not result in the recovery of any marijuana.

It should not require an article in The New York Times to call attention to such patently disingenuous tactics, but has become necessary for a variety of reasons, including the NYPD's failure to correct such behavior, the willingness of prosecutors and judges to credit the lying officers and the increasing rate of occurrence.

107. On April 24, 2019, The New York Times published an article, entitled "Detective's Lies Sent Three People to Prison, Prosecutors Charge," by Sean Piccolo, detailing the lies of NYPD Second Grade Detective Joseph Franco and how those lies resulted in the imprisonment of at least three innocent people. The article described how Det. Franco lied about observing drug transactions on at least three separate occasions, lies that were only uncovered through contradictory video evidence. Det. Franco's lies resulted in the innocent individuals each being sentenced to prison terms in excess of one-year.

108. Other articles include: (i) "Testilying' by Police: A Stubborn Problem.," by Joseph Goldstein, The New York Times, March 18, 2018; (ii) "New York Detective Charged with Faking Lineup Results," by Joseph Goldstein, The New York Times, February 17, 2018; (iii) "He Excelled as a Detective, Until Prosecutors Stopped Believing Him," by Joseph Goldstein, The New York Times, October 17, 2017; (iv) "Review Board Notes Rise in New York Police Officers' False Statement," by J. David Goodman, The New York Times, May 14, 2015; (v) "In Brooklyn Gun Cases, Suspicion Turns to the Police," by Stephanie Clifford, The New York Times, December 11, 2014; (vi) "Detective is Found Guilty of Planting Drugs," by Tim Stelloh, The New York Times, November 1, 2011; and (vii) "The Drugs? They Came From the Police," by Jim Dwyer, The New York Times, October 13, 2011.

109. The NYPD has a longstanding and ignominious record of failing to discipline its officers, or even entertaining allegations of wrongdoing against them. On June 26, 2019, The New York Times published an article, entitled “2,495 Reports of Police Bias. Not One Was Deemed Valid by the N.Y.P.D.” This article reported that within the last five (5) years, almost 2,500 separate individuals have filed formal complaints with the NYPD alleging that an officer acted with bias toward them, with not a single one being substantiated by the NYPD. Such a finding is plainly incredible and obviously the result of deliberately poor or nonexistent investigatory protocols. The report further impugned the NYPD’s commitment to combat the prejudices and the biases exhibited by many of its officers.

110. Upon information and belief, the NYPD, the City of New York, and their respective policymakers, officials or supervisors have imposed, tacitly approved or acquiesced to policies, customs, or patterns and practices within the NYPD that resulted in plaintiff’s arrest without probable cause.

111. Upon information and belief, the NYPD, the City of New York, and their respective policymakers or supervisors have failed to provide adequate training regarding the identification of probable cause, reasonable suspicion or the appropriate amount of force to be used.

112. Defendants’ actions, pursuant to plaintiff’s underlying arrests, which each occurred without even the semblance of probable cause, were so blatantly violative of plaintiff’s civil rights that the tacit approval of identical or similar acts by the policymakers or supervisors of the NYPD and the City of New York, as well as their deliberate indifference towards the rights of any individuals who may come into contact with defendants, should be inferred, because such flagrant deprivations of constitutionally protected rights could not and would not occur without the tacit approval or deliberate indifference regarding the commission of such violations by the policymakers or supervisors of the NYPD and City of New York.

113. Upon information and belief, further details and facts, relating to the unlawful policies, customs or patterns and practices of the NYPD, City of New York and their respective policymakers, supervisors, police officers or employees, will become known after the completion of discovery, as such information is presently within the exclusive possession of defendants, the NYPD and City of New York.

114. Upon information and belief, the personnel files, records and disciplinary histories of the officer defendants will reveal a history of Constitutional violations indicative of defendant City's knowledge that the individual officer defendants were unfit for employment as NYPD officers, or for employment in general, and that the probability of the individually named defendants committing similar violations in the future was extremely high.

115. Upon information and belief, said personnel files, records and disciplinary histories will conclusively show that the City and the NYPD were fully aware of defendants' past constitutional violations, the unacceptably high probability for the recurrence of similar transgressions, the unreasonably dangerous situations that were likely to result from their hiring or retention, as well as their unsuitability for employment as law enforcement officers, or for employment in general, and that the NYPD and City of New York failed to engage in any preventive or corrective action intended to diminish the likelihood of recurrence for such violations, which is tantamount to the City's tacit approval of such misconduct or the City's deliberate indifference towards the civil rights of those who may interact with its employees, including Samsuddin, Martinez, Ting and Rodriguez.

116. The aforementioned acts of defendants, including the City, Samsuddin, Martinez, Ting Rodriguez and John or Jane Does 1-10, directly or proximately resulted in the deprivation or violation of Mr. Delgado's civil rights, as guaranteed and protected by the Fourth, Sixth and Fourteenth Amendments to the United States Constitution, as well as the laws and Constitution of the State of New York.

117. As direct or proximate results of the above referenced acts, Mr. Delgado was caused to suffer the loss of his liberty, irreparable reputational harm, loss of earnings and potential earnings, physical injury, as well as severe and permanent emotional distress, in the form of fear, embarrassment, humiliation, traumatization, frustration, extreme inconvenience and anxiety.
